NUVIEW SYSTEMS ACQUIRES CORT PAYROLL SOFTWARE TO STRENGTHENS ITS STRATEGIC HUMAN RESOURCE PLATFORM

Comprehensive Payroll Capabilities Available in Both a Hosted or Licensed Application

Wilmington, MA – October 2, 2007 – In a direct response to the growing trend of shifting human resource (HR) and payroll functions from disjointed point solutions to a fully integrated application, NuView Systems - developer of the award winning NuViewHR® product suite - today announced that it has completed the acquisition of Cort Software, a leading provider of enterprise payroll systems and developers of Cort HCM and Cort 1099R. Having payroll and human capital management (HCM) functions integrated in a singular platform enables organizations to combine critical, enterprise data from both source systems which improves data integrity, consolidates and enhances reporting capabilities and reduces costs. As a result of the acquisition, NuView will gain a new office on the West Coast and add more than two hundred clients to NuView's expanding customer roster. Financial terms were not disclosed.

“The acquisition of Cort Software and its user-configurable payroll solutions adds a critical component to NuViewHR's highly modular product suite,” said Shafiq Lokhandwala, CEO of NuView Systems, Inc. “By integrating Cort's proven payroll processing solution with NuView's strategic HR platform, clients of both companies will benefit by having a single vendor manage their entire HCM software needs. This acquisition clearly demonstrates our continued efforts to support the evolution of HR from a cost center to a key component of a company's ongoing success, and its recognition as a contributor to the corporate bottom-line.”

With Cort's Payroll as a part of the NuViewHR product suite, organizations now have the capacity to tightly integrate critical enterprise data from both HR and payroll. This collaboration of business intelligence reflects the changing dynamics of the human resources discipline. By combining the two functions across the enterprise, HR executives will have more exposure under the corporate umbrella and C-suite executives will have better control and more accurate reporting of the organization's two highest corporate expenses: salary and benefits.

“Organizations now recognize the need to put critical employee information in one centralized location and move away from multiple applications if they want to streamline their operations and treat their HR departments as strategic information sources,” said Joseph Pickler, Vice President of Business Development, NuView Systems, Inc. “This acquisition is important as it helps organizations create consolidated HR views of their employees in order to better align costs with over-all work-performance.”
