

Revenue Growth & International Customers Prompt NuView Systems Inc. to open new European Headquarters

State of the art facility opens in London this Month

Andover, MA – January 17, 2012 - NuView Systems Inc., a global provider of Human Capital Management (HR) & Payroll solutions, announced today the opening of its new international office and the expansion of its European team. The new offices are in a landmark building located in the heart of London. With the addition of the London-based team, NuView now has global implementation and sales offices throughout the United States, in Europe, and a technology center in Asia.

“This new office was prompted by tremendous growth in our global operations and we are thrilled to continue the expansion of our international footprint. It is imperative in today’s economy to offer a truly global network for our customers,” said Shafiq Lokhandwala, CEO of NuView Systems, Inc. “Our clients’ needs are our first priority and adding support in Europe is a tremendous benefit for our international customers.”

“The office in London will benefit NuView as well as its expanding list of international customers. Prior to the opening of our new London facility, our implementations were primarily managed out of the US,” says Hugh Freeman, International Sales Director for NuView Systems in Europe. “It is a major step forward that we can now directly support our global clients from this outstanding facility with experienced, senior NuView multilingual personnel.”

NuView has experienced close to 100 percent client growth in Europe. The company has completed implementations that have encompassed more than 30 countries and over 20 languages as part of their global network. Increasingly, businesses with global workforces need a Global HRMS that is flexible and versatile. NuView’s reliable and robust HRMS enables the standardization of HR processes and best practices, facilitates internal mobility, provides managers with a global view of their workforce, and allows more sophisticated workforce planning.

“I am excited to see what our new London location will bring to clients and prospective clients throughout Europe,” said Stefania Dragojlovic, European Operations Director for NuView Systems, Inc. “We are looking forward to building a successful European operation on a much larger scale.”
